Ruth Issett

Ruth's work reflects her continuing passion and excitement for the use of colour. Working on both paper and fabric she uses dyeing, printing, painting, collage and stitch. Her work is anchored in her observations of different environments.

After many years of working virtually full time, Ruth now enjoys working freelance, focusing on her own work & delivering selective teaching commitments.

Recently Ruth has been investigating and sampling multilayered fabric pieces, exploring the quality of colour achieved by dyeing, over dyeing, printing and using various fabrics. Her work is very influenced by her current surroundings in rural Shropshire where she lives and works.

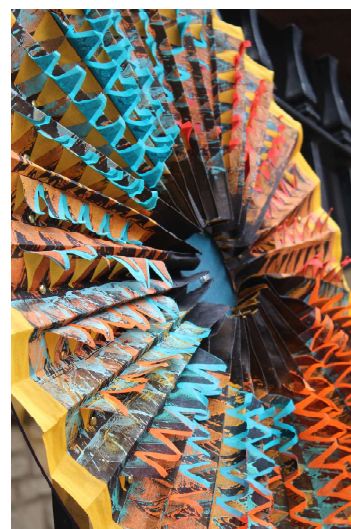

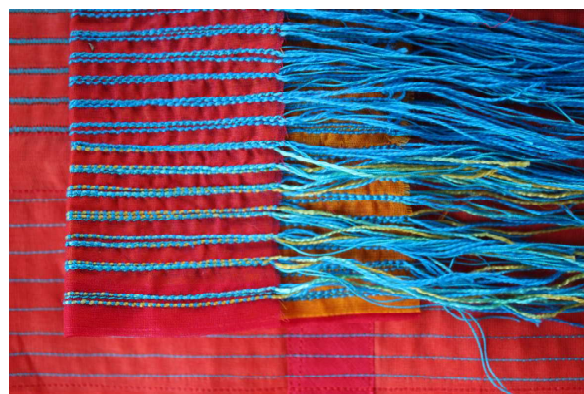

Ruth has published six books on colour and textiles, the most recent being A Passion For Colour for Search Press 2013.
