Gina Ferrari

Colour, texture and stitch have been a passion in all of Gina's work over the past twenty years.

Despite the evolution of various styles and creative interests during this time constants have remained such as her interest in people, the written word and stories.... with the occasional stitched landscape thrown in for good measure!

Colour and precision of stitch all feature heavily in her work from the very earliest experiments in machine embroidery to her most recent series of miniature stitched portraits.

Over the past few months Gina has rediscovered her love of painting, drawing and mark making and is now discovering ways of combining this work on paper with stitch.
